MEDIA RELEASE

Nomad Technics receives EASA Part-145 Line Maintenance Approval for Airbus A320 family.

Basel, March 17, 2020 Nomad Technics has received the EASA Part-145 Line Maintenance Approval for the Airbus A320 family issued by the Swiss Federal Office of Civil Aviation (FOCA).

Nomad Technics can perform line maintenance work on the entire range of Airbus A320 family aircraft. This includes A318, A319, A320 and A321 commercial and corporate jets, both classic and Neo aircraft types. The company performs a variety of maintenance tasks, such as out of phase work, A-checks, engine change, implementation of Airworthiness Directives (AD's) and Service Bulletins (SB's), modifications, cabin work and AOG support.

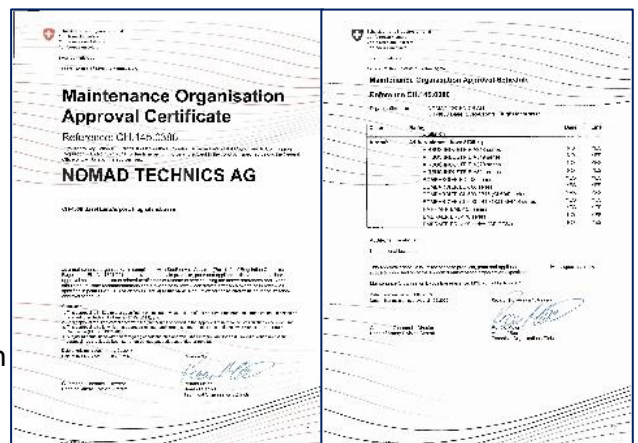

„We are excited that we have successfully demonstrated to the authorities that our organization complies with EASA regulations to provide line maintenance work“, says Christian Sacker, Director Quality, Safety & Compliance at Nomad Technics. „Operators of EASA, Aruba, Cayman Islands and Isle of Man registered Airbus A320 family aircraft have now a further choice of having their assets serviced, and we are looking forward to welcoming them at our Basel/Switzerland facility“, adds Roman Hug, VP/General Manager of Nomad Technics.
